I Want to Hear from YOU! - Pastor Glover

Well, it's been almost a year since I was installed as your pastor. And what a year it has been!

I hope all of you know how much I truly love being the pastor of Abiding Savior Lutheran Church and School. Coming to "work" every day is pure joy. In every way, the ministry here is thriving and I am so excited about the plans God has for us in the years ahead.

To ensure that I am doing my part in providing you, the members and friends of Abiding Savior, the pastoral support you need, I want to hear from you. I want to know what you think about the Word and Sacrament ministry that Abiding Savior provides. Are we meeting your needs? Are we meeting the needs of our community? What is going well? What can we do better?

As I've mentioned countless times, you can call me, email me, text me, stop by and see me, or ask that I come and see you. However you make it happen, I want to hear from you!

As the summer comes to an end, I pray that you may find some rest before the busyness of a new school year and fall festivities begin to consume us. That rest can always be found here, at Abiding Savior, as we listen to God's Word, approach him in prayer and worship, and receive His gifts in the Sacraments of His Church. Our future is bright, not because of anything we've done, but solely on account of our Lord who provides for our every need. May His peace be with you and may our ministry to those entrusted to our care be forever led by Him.

Yours in Christ,
Pastor Glover

Rainforest VBS 2023

From July 24 – 27, 50 children and 30 volunteers participated in Abiding Savior's Rainforest VBS where they learned that "Jesus is our Treasure." With the congregation's generous donations and gifts brought to VBS by the children, wheelbarrows full of school supplies were provided to the children of Stephen Foster Elementary School! As you can see by the pictures below, fun was had by all!

I am currently writing this message on July 26th (the day after the submission deadline) while Susan and Anna stare at the blank page in the newsletter where it should be, asking myself where did July go?

I am very happy with how I spent my time in July, though! I spent more time than usual at home with our dogs and cats while Hannah was in Peru doing mission work with her missionary parents. Around the church, we worked especially hard on the choir room and bandshell as we settle the riches of equipment we've been blessed with over the years into their long-term places. I wrote a lot of music. I also got to spend time in Peru myself for about ten days. All of this got me thinking, for sure, about how I spend my time ordinarily.

While Hannah was in Peru she helped out her missionary parents with the goings on at the Casa Shea, which includes the house she grew up in and a bit of a compound /home base for housing and providing for the many teams (usually medical/surgical teams) that come through. She'd sometimes have a chance to facetime me and report in on how things were going and what she was up to.

Now, I'm sure when people think of missionary work and evangelism, they think of heroic discovery of uncontacted tribes or the proclamation of the gospel in hostile foreign lands against all odds... and it is certainly that, sometimes. But much of the work is in the mundane, daily maintenance of the Casa Shea. Hannah's first big project was the sorting and organizing the vast plethora of towels, garments, and various things that past teams had left at the mission for other people who may need them. It turned out to be a treasure trove of useful items and everything is now much more accessible after Hannah and her mother Rita got it all sorted, organized, and labeled.

The fact is, the much more visible work of surgeries, clinics, and even preaching and teaching in the jungle could not happen without the many hands that do the work in the background. In my own neck of the woods and in my own area of expertise, I think of the hard work of our musical ensembles here at ASLC and their dedicated time in rehearsal that is necessary to make our music in worship happen. Last year from August 2022 to May 2023 the choir sang about two hours worth of music in worship; it took about 50 hours of rehearsal to make those two hours happen. The praise team plays 12-14 minutes of music during worship when they are playing, and it takes some 60-90 minutes to learn and prepare that music each week. Add to that the many hours of personal time our singers and instrumentalists devote to individual practice and the number continues to increase.

It's hard to feel like you're doing the work of the Lord when you're sorting towels, washing dishes, or sitting alone practicing an instrument, but we are. I'm reminded of the final preschool chapel lesson that I was delighted to teach them in chapel this week about David – before he was King, he was a shepherd. Samuel anointed him and the Holy Spirit rushed on him like wind. His skill on the harp and his soulful voice put him in the court of King Saul and he learned his statecraft while he played to soothe the King's soul.

May God grant us all the ability to see His work in us as we serve in whatever capacity we are called, the patience to wait for the blossoms, and the wisdom to plant seeds we may not even see sprout in the hope and faith that He will make his orchard to grow and reap a great harvest.

In the Name of Jesus,
Joshua L. Mazur

Beyond Borders: How God is Working in Peru

- Hannah Mazur

I had the opportunity to return to Peru this summer and do some mission work alongside my family. I say “return” because I grew up in Peru-my parents are missionaries, continuing the work that my grandparents had begun before them, in the early 1950’s. I had a wonderful childhood running through the jungle barefoot, climbing trees, and marveling at God’s creation (The Amazon rainforest is home to over 40,000 plant species, 3,000 species of freshwater fish, 370 types of reptiles, and over 2.5 million species of insects!) Here’s how the Lord is working in my hometown of Pucallpa, Peru.

A ministry that is near to my family’s heart is called the Centro de Capacitación Bíblica (CCB) or Bible Training Institute, where people from various indigenous tribal groups can study the word of God. (Side note: It is only within the last 50 years that the Peruvian government recognizes indigenous peoples as having souls.) My father was integral in the opening of this organization in 1994. Graduates of the CCB immerse themselves with the local Shipibo-Conibo Tribal Evangelical Church Association, serving by making disciples, training others in evangelism, modeling leadership for the emerging generation, as well as carrying out social and community development projects that improve health and increase access to food, water and education.

In the almost 30 years this program has been active, the CCB has grown from a graduating class size of 6 to an average of 50 students representing, over the years, a total of 18 different tribal groups and resulting in 360 graduates, 90% of whom remain active in ministry today as pastors, teachers, and church workers in various capacities. In a classroom, you will find members from various tribes who, 50 years ago, were warring with and killing each other. Now, they’re learning about the love of Jesus Christ and sharing in the eternal gift of salvation. Amongst these students, you will find those who have only recently been freed from the chains of Animism; imagine being so afraid to leave your hut at night because demons that speak to you from the trees threaten to eat your children. Now they’re reveling in the security that Christ offers us as the true ruler of the earth and everything in it. I was happy to serve as a translator for a group from Memphis who focused on a week-long discipleship program geared towards married couples studying at the CCB.

Another ministry that I was excited to work with this summer is called The Refuge of Hope; a center for children with disabilities. Up until the late 2000’s in Peru, it was a great shame to have a child with any sort of physical or mental disability. This resulted in families literally hiding their children, away from society. Refuge of Hope was founded in 1987 by a pastor named Victor, who himself had Polio, and what an incredible testimony he has! What began as a trade school for young adults with disabilities has expanded to a church ministry, integrating elementary and high school aged students to provide education and job training to this marginalized group of people. It is now a tight-knit community where children and young adults can grow and thrive and learn about how God loves them and wants the very best for them! It's due to this ministry alone that the mindset towards people with disabilities has changed in this region of Peru over the last few decades. I had the incredible opportunity to be a part of a VBS program where we made crafts, sang songs, played soccer, and shared the love of Jesus with over 250 students and their families. While there is always more work to be done, God's word is active and alive in even the farthest-reaching places of the earth.

As the visiting teams came and went I thought often of what all of this might mean for Abiding Savior Lutheran Church. There is much for us to learn and be reminded of under the canopies of the rainforest and on the waters of the Amazon. People making their way through life on $1 a day (or less) don't look so very different from the homeless people I've driven by since coming home as they do on the red clay roads in Pucallpa. The danger and threat of demonic animism is raw and brutal in the deep jungle but the rampant materialism and idolatry we work to recognize and oppose in our communities and neighborhoods right here in Gainesville are also dangerous and brutal.

However, the same Jesus was in the bread and wine I received at communion each Sunday. The same word of God was preached and taught (albeit in Spanish!) and that same word unites with the waters of baptism and so many people are set free from generations of fear and now walk the roads in faith and by grace. I feel energized and renewed having been reminded of God's ever-present work that transcends time, place, language, and other differences to pursue His people; in the 103 degree/99% humidity of Pucallpa, Peru, and in the equally hot and humid Gainesville, Florida.

En el nombre de Jesus,
Hannah Mazur

“Then the King will say to those on his right. ‘Come, you who are blessed by my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world. For I was hungry and you gave me food, I was thirsty and you gave me drink, I was a stranger and you welcomed me, I was naked and you clothed me, I was sick and you visited me, I was in prison and you came to me.’ Then the righteous will answer him saying, ‘Lord, when did we see you hungry and feed you, or thirsty and give you drink? And when did we see you a stranger and welcome you, or naked and clothe you? And when did we see you sick or in prison and visit you?’ And the King will answer them, ‘Truly I say to you, as you did it to one of the least of these my brothers, you did it to me.’” Matthew 25:34-40

Abiding Savior Lutheran Preschool had a successful summer camp from June 5-July 27. The theme for summer camp was “Adventures in Books.” The children experienced an amazing camp where we went on adventures with various authors and “took a look, it’s in a book.” We experienced God’s creation as we used STEAM activities (Science, Technology, Engineering, Math, and Art) to explore the author’s books and the best book, the B-I-B-L-E!

We are excited to begin the 2023-2024 school year at Abiding Savior Lutheran Preschool on August 14. Our theme for the school year is “A Rainbow is a Promise.” Throughout the school year, we will treasure the promises of our great and mighty God as we celebrate that “A Rainbow is a Promise” using the verse from Genesis 9:13, “I have set my rainbow in the clouds, and it will be the sign of the covenant between me and the earth.” Guided by their teachers, children will be celebrating His promises each month incorporating our monthly focuses: God promises to . . . strengthen you, give you rest, take care of all your needs, answer your prayers, work everything out for your good, be with you, protect you, and free you from sin. We are thankful that “God Keeps His Promises” to me and you.

Our entire teaching team is looking forward to an exciting and rewarding school year as we embrace both the blessing and the responsibility of caring for Jesus’ little lambs. Thank you for your continued prayers and support of our preschool ministry as we begin a new school year.

Celebrating His Promises,
