Mission of the Month: Missionary Erin Mackenzie

Butterfly Article July 2025

“Rejoice always, pray without ceasing, give thanks in all circumstances; for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus for you.” 1 Thes. 5:16-18 (ESV)

It’s probably not the best idea to write a newsletter article when I have had a bad week, or a bad month, but here goes: “Rejoice always, pray without ceasing, give thanks in all circumstances; for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus for you.” 1 Thes. 5:16-18 (ESV)

You’re kidding, right? Always? All? As in everything, at all times? But what about when disappointment happens? When loss occurs? What about when things don’t go the way I think they should? What about...what about....?

“Rejoice always, pray without ceasing, give thanks in all circumstances; for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus for you.” 1 Thes. 5:16-18 (ESV)

And this is supposed to be God’s will for me—even when I have had a terrible, horrible, no good, very bad week? Really? REALLY????? “Rejoice always, pray without ceasing, give thanks in all circumstances; for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus for you.” 1 Thes. 5:16-18 (ESV)

“Rejoice always, pray without ceasing, give thanks in all circumstances; for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus for you.” 1 Thes. 5:16-18 (ESV)

Prayer, praise, and an attitude of gratitude even in the face of disappointment, disruptions, even losses are good medicine for the soul (I’m writing this for myself!), because those prescriptions root us in God’s gracious actions in Christ Jesus, and God’s promise for us. They don’t deny problems, they just tell where to go with them from the start.

So I will, rejoice always, pray without ceasing, give thanks in all circumstances; for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus for me!

Just some thoughts in the wake of a terrible, horrible, no good, very bad few weeks, and a gracious God who is above it all.

God’s peace,
Pastor Ziegler

JULY 2025

"When life gives you lemons, make lemonade" What about when God gives you lemons? Just what are these 'lemons' anyway? A bitter fruit that not too many folks enjoy on its own, a struggle to eat if ever given just a lemon. But God often gives lemons, doesn't He? Joseph is given a dream prophecy of greatness, but he then is betrayed by his brothers, sold as a slave, and still later wrongly accused and imprisoned. Quite the bowl of lemons. Or David who is anointed king and defeats a giant yet then must flee for His life and live in exile from a mad ruler. Quite the lemon fest. On their own, lemons are bitter, unwanted. Trials and struggles and unwelcome, and yet, God uses them nonetheless. Because lemons are not the end goal. It's something much better. God adds the sweetness of His grace like sugar to the lemons and pours out His presence like water in the midst of bitter sufferings. And what happens next? Joseph rises to second in command and saves his family. David becomes a great ruler after God's own heart. And what of us? When we suffer the bitterness of our present experiences, we too have the promise of God's grace and presence. He takes our lemons and makes something much, much better than we can even imagine.

Faithfulness: The Stewardship Standard

"Moreover; it is required of stewards that they be found faithful" (1 Cor. 4:2)

What is the standard to which a steward is held? Ask the average person, and they might talk about percentages, tithes, and commitments. Too often, the default mode of measuring stewards is by how much and how frequently they give. This is not helpful. Measuring activity without any connection to baptismal identity is a recipe for disaster. It can either breed a sense of superiority and self-righteousness or create a culture of scarcity and despair. Neither outcome is godly or helpful.

This is not to say that stewardship should be regarded as "no big deal." St. Paul, within his discussion of the ministry to which he has been called, sets the standard of accountability for the steward: faithfulness. This removes any sense of superiority or self-righteousness and dispels scarcity and despair. When a steward manages what the Lord has entrusted to them – resources and all aspects of life – for God's purposes, the focus is not on how much or how frequently they give.

This standard reflects the stewardship portrayed in the Gospels where Jesus entrusts varying amounts, each according to ability. The commended stewards were recognized for their faithfulness in their vocation, not the amounts they managed. Conversely, the condemned stewards were not castigated for their lack of performance but for their lack of faithfulness.

What does this mean for the steward in the pew? The Lord has entrusted you with various things. Luther captures them in his explanation of the First Article of the Apostles' Creed and the Fourth Petition of the Lord's Prayer. The familiar couplets of food and drink, house and home, spouse and children, land, animals and all possessions are the Lord's, and He has entrusted them to you for His purpose. This trust brings an active realization of thanksgiving.

This active thanksgiving is our stewardship. It can be distilled into two questions that the steward regularly needs to answer:

1. How has God blessed me?
2. How is He calling me to respond?

The first question is quite simple to answer: if the Lord has entrusted something to you, it is a blessing. This blessing is for God's glory and the benefit of your neighbor. The second question is more challenging to measure; it is not about percentages and charts. Instead, it is about a life of thanksgiving that flows from the mercies of God revealed in Jesus Christ. This thanksgiving starts at and flows from the cross and the empty tomb. Our stewardship of the Gospel drives our stewardship of everything else.

The standard, then, is faithfulness. Faithfulness flows from eyes focused on Jesus, the author and perfecter of our faith. It does not come from our efforts but through the working of the Holy Spirit in our lives, through Word and Sacrament. It begins at the altar in the Divine Service but extends into the world – from hearth and home to workplace and classroom, from commerce to leisure. The mercy of God, freely given in Jesus, leads us to demonstrate a faithfulness that reveals to others the same mercy we have received in Jesus.

This faithfulness cannot be measured empirically. It is simply allowing the Holy Spirit to work in and through us for the glory of God and the benefit of our neighbor. Weekly. Daily. Faithfully.

“Sí, quiero.”

There are memes upon memes about a phrase heard at the end of many a conversation with Dominicans: “si Dios quiere” (Lord willing). Many feature empty promises that the speaker will do something like go to the gym “si Dios quiere”; others hint at taking a luxury vacation or falling in love “si Dios quiere” while a stereotypically bearded, elderly God says “No quiero.” “Si Dios quiere” can also be a convenient way to turn down an invitation without actually saying no; I’m not innocent of having tried that tack!

Indeed, the verbiage of religiosity runs deep in this place, and in much of Latin America. Bible verses, inspirational phrases, and even somewhat harsh-sounding reminders are ubiquitous on storefronts, concrete pylons, bridges, vehicles, and more. Experience, however, teaches that too often, such blatant expressions of faith—verbal, graffitied, or otherwise—are just that: expressions. James 4:15 gently prompts,

Instead you ought to say, “If the Lord wills, we will live and do this or that.”

The preceding verses allude to the fact that we have no control over the future or foreknowledge of it. Instead, we each submit to God’s perfect plan for our lives. It is all too true that each step I take from this moment forward is only because God wills it. First Timothy is clear that He desires all to be saved; “si Dios quiere,” I’ll be His vessel toward that end until He calls me elsewhere.

Praises and Petitions

1. Thanksgiving for the first board of directors at Misión Los Andes in Panama City, Panama, installed 5/25.
2. Thanksgiving for the installation of the Rev. Josué Ventura at Iglesia Luterana Pan de Vida (Santo Domingo, DR) on 6/8.
3. For all affected by a tornado that passed through parts of St. Louis on 5/16.
4. For the Weber family, as they mourn the loss of baby Abigail Alora, born into her Savior's arms on 6/3.
5. For the Maita family, as they await visas in order to proceed with a transition from the DR to PR.

Sister Churches in Christ

I wasn't terribly broken up about ceding my usual role in the DR seminary's annual theological symposium to my associate, who helped make this year's event run more smoothly than ever from a logistical standpoint. I was, however, deeply regretful to have missed a Divine Service the Saturday after graduation celebrating the LCMS's nascent altar & pulpit fellowship with her sister church in Bolivia (ICEL). A spiral-bound service folder and professional altar arrangements marked the gravity of the occasion. Whilst I manned a volunteer team in Belize, Lutherans from 14 countries packed the pews at Iglesia Luterana el Buen Pastor in Palmar Arriba. Bolivian seminary student Edwin bore the processional cross, the Rev. Ted Krey (LAC Regional Director) presided, the Rev. Limberth Fernández Coronado (ICEL President) preached, and the Rev. Dr. Jonathan Shaw (Director of LCMS Church Relations) celebrated the Lord's Supper. Mere weeks later, on June 8, six ICEL pastors were colloquized. Rejoice with us at the eternal implications of these milestones in Latin American church history!

Spotted at a tienda in Valley of Peace, Belize: single-use SPICES (cloves, cinnamon, and thyme, among others).
