

SERMON SUMMARY

First Sunday in Advent—Mark 13:24-37

Name: _____

November 29, 2020

Jesus speaks these words to Peter, James and John; and He compares the life of the Church until His return to—are you ready for this?—_____.

They should be doing what Jesus has given them _____ to do.

So, what authority has _____ given to His people?

However, keep in mind that the Lord entrusts different individuals with different _____ to do.

So what has Jesus given you _____ to do?

Jesus gives you authority to be His _____—something you could not do on your own.

Only because of His _____ and resurrection, you have the authority to say, “I am God’s beloved _____.”

Once again, this declares to you that you have the authority by Jesus to be _____, to no longer be guilty for sin.

First and foremost, He gives you the authority to be _____!

Be forgiven: your housework is really no work at all, because _____ has done all the work by His life, death and resurrection.

Now that Jesus has spoken forgiveness to us, He now gives us the authority to _____ others.

Likewise, you hear God’s _____ and believe that your Savior will come again in glory. Believing and _____, you’re prepared.

Faith loves repentance, because _____ of sin also includes the forgiveness of the Gospel.

And in a way, waiting for the _____’s return is much different from the next 28 days—the Lord has done all the work for your salvation, and your “_____” is not first to do, but to be: be forgiven.

Questions

1. What “authority” has Jesus given you? (I listed three things in my sermon.)
2. Why can you not say that you choose to be in God’s family?
3. Because we are forgiven, what does Jesus want us to go and do?
4. Any questions or comments about this sermon?
