

Our Ultimate Calling

Devotions for the 20-Something Woman

There is one body and one Spirit — just as you were called to the one hope that belongs to your call — one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all, who is over all and through all and in all (Ephesians 4:4–6).

The church loves to ask young people, “Where is God calling you?” This seemingly simple question of vocation can elicit a wide range of emotions, from insecurity to confidence in your current career. However, a calling or vocation is so much more than what career you have or what job title you currently hold. A vocation is whatever role you have in life — daughter, sister, wife, mother, scientist, accountant, or veterinarian — and how you use each of those roles to show God’s love.

God chooses to use broken tools to do His work. We will never be able to perfectly share God’s love, but that doesn’t mean we shouldn’t try to love others. The most blessed part of a vocation is the knowledge that the Holy Spirit is at work through us. We are not the ones who can create faith, but we can share our faith and trust that the Holy Spirit is doing His part and working in people’s hearts.

So the next time someone asks what your calling is, rejoice and take comfort in the knowledge that God is at work in all that we do! And through His work, our ultimate calling of sharing the Good News with others is being accomplished.

Prayer: Spirit of the Living God, guide me to fulfill the work You would have me do so that Your will is done. In Jesus’ name. Amen.

Young Women
IN MISSION

Anna Reineke, Antigo, Wisconsin
Published by Lutheran Women’s Missionary League, 2021
lwml.org