Psalm Notes:

Written by Sons of Korah. Kohath was a son of Levi. The Levites were temple workers, but not priests. Korah is the grandson of Kohath. He grouped up with Dathan and Abiram, and the three of them rebelled against Moses. So, God opened the ground the swallowed up the rebellious men and their followers – 250 men. However, God spared Korah’s sons. Many important men came from these sons including the prophet Samuel, some of King David’s expert warriors, and many of the doorkeepers and custodians of the tabernacle. They apparently also became masters musicians and would write 11 of the psalms. (Numbers 16 for whole story on Korah.)

“This psalm is an encouragement to the godly who are haunted by the power and influence of the rich. The problem of the prosperity of the wicked is difficult, but the psalmist has given us a ray of light as to the final resolution... by the convention of a wisdom psalm which includes question, observation of life, proverbial conclusion, metaphor, and personification.” The Riddles of Psalm 49: taken from Expositor’s Bible Commentary
