Social Science 101 introduction

Welcome back to class. A good definition is given by the European Science foundation – the social sciences are those subjects which examine and explain human beings. The major social sciences (depending on who's list you use) are: Anthropology, Archaeology, Communication, Economics, Education, Geography, History, Law, Linguistics, Politics, Psychology Sociology. We hear at the institute have already dealt with in great detail Archaeology, Geography, and History each of these fields has their own wing in the institute. In the social science wing, we will address the following;

Sociology:	The study of society
Psychology:	The study of the mind and behavior
Anthropology:	The study of humans
Communication & Linguistics,	The study of language & transmission

Economics, Education, Law, Politics: these last four are large topics but addressed in the context of the institute we may get these done in one or two lessons.
