One of my fondest memories as a kid was Saturday mornings. My brother and I would wake up at 7am to a morning of magic on TV, Saturday Morning cartoons. We had GI Joe, Thundercats, Smurfs, Tom and Jerry, Bugs Bunny, and if we got up early enough The Three Stooges. But one of my favorite cartoons of all time, even though Michael Bay made them terrible in the movies, was the Transformers. Robots in Disguise.

Now you're probably wondering why the heck I'm talking about the Transformers in a pastoral newsletter. New Year's brings resolutions of transformation every year, and indeed if you're like me we transform with great struggles how we write the date on things for a few weeks. Transformation isn't just a theme in the secular world around the New Year, it is a very common theme preached in the Christian faith. The way transformation is most commonly spoken of, though, has more in common with New Year's resolutions than with the Bible. Don't take my word for it though, let's compare the two.

First New Year's resolutions. Transformation is just setting one's mind to a task such as changing a habit like spending less, saving more, going on a diet. The assumptions behind resolutions are that we have free will and can make choices of all natures in order to accomplish the goal that we've set for ourselves. If we don't accomplish the goal we did not have enough resolve, or will power, to follow through on the goal. The most common way people motivate each other to accomplish their goals is to keep focusing the person on their goal in spite of the pain, to show the potential gain over the pain, and if that doesn't work eventually shame or scare them into accomplishing the goal.

The New Year's resolution form of Christian transformation looks almost identical to this picture. We have free will to choose all things, including God. We need to set our mind on the goal which is heaven, Jesus, salvation, etc. but which all ultimately come back to us being better people and changing certain things about our lives, usually very visible things that others notice but not so much the inner issues that are the root of the visible things. If we aren't changing enough in another Christians eyes then they call into question if we even had faith in the first place, remind us about the fires of hell, and seek to help us map out a new route to earthly perfection.

Biblical concept of Transformation. I'm going to compare two different places where the apostle Paul speaks about transformation in the Bible. First from 2 Corinthians 3, read the whole thing on your own but here are a few highlights: *1 Are we beginning to commend ourselves again? Or do we need, like some people, letters of recommendation to you or from you? 2 You yourselves are our letter, written on our hearts, known and read by everyone. 3 You show that you are a letter from Christ, the result of our ministry, written not with ink but with the Spirit of the living God, not on tablets of stone but on tablets of human hearts. 4 Such confidence we have through Christ before God. 5 Not that we are competent in ourselves to claim anything for ourselves, but our competence comes from God. 6 He has made us competent as ministers of a new covenant—not of the letter but of the Spirit; for the letter kills, but the Spirit gives life. And later, 12 Therefore, since we have such a hope, we are very bold. 13 We are not like Moses, who would put a veil over his face to prevent the Israelites from seeing the end of what was passing away. 14 But their minds were made dull, for to this day the same veil remains when the old covenant is read. It has not been removed, because only in Christ is it taken away. 15 Even to this day when Moses is read, a veil covers their hearts. 16 But whenever anyone turns to the Lord, the veil is taken away. 17 Now the Lord is the Spirit, and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is freedom. 18 And we all, who with unveiled faces contemplate the Lord's glory, are being transformed into his image with ever-increasing glory, which comes from the Lord, who is the Spirit.

Paul also discusses transformation in Romans 12, please read the whole thing but I want to highlight the first verses: Therefore, I urge you, brothers and sisters, in view of God's mercy, to offer your bodies as a living sacrifice, holy and pleasing to God—this is your true and proper worship. 2 Do not conform to the pattern of this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind. Then you will be able to test and approve what God's will is—his good, pleasing and perfect will. 3 For by the grace given me I say to every one of you: Do not think of yourself more highly than you ought, but rather think of yourself with sober judgment, in accordance with the faith God has distributed to each of you. 4 For just as each of us has one body with many members, and these members do not all have the same function, 5 so in Christ we, though many, form one body, and each member belongs to all the others. 6 We have different gifts, according to the grace given to each of us. If your gift is prophesying, then prophesy in accordance with your faith; 7 if it is serving, then serve; if it is teaching, then teach; 8 if it is to encourage, then give encouragement; if it is giving, then give generously; if it is to lead, do it diligently; if it is to show mercy, do it cheerfully.

Paul's encouragement for transformation to Christians is not to point them to themselves but instead point them to Jesus/God who is transforming them. When he encourages them to do something with their lives it is always in response to what God has done and continues to do in transforming them through His Spirit. He doesn't teach free will, but God's will in changing our sinful and inadequate lives through the righteous and omnipotent life of Christ. He points the believers to Christ again and again, to the transformation that Christ is making in their lives. Paul doesn't call into question their faith but instead declares the promises that Christ has made to them and encourages them to live in the light of that promise.

Here's what I'm trying to get at. Today is a new day and a new year because God continues to make universe move in the ways that He set it and time passes. Today we are new people because Christ died on the cross and rose from the grave. Today the Spirit is drowning our old sinful nature in the waters of our Baptisms where we are directly connected to Jesus death and a new creation is rising from those waters even as Christ rose from the dead. Our proclamation of change and transformation needs to begin and end in Christ, proclaiming and pointing people to Christ the transformer and declaring what He said He has done for us now and forevermore.

So here's my question for you. As you look at your life and your proclamation, what is the message you're speaking? Are you pointing people to themselves? To their own inadequate efforts, and they'll always be inadequate because we are inadequate through and through in our sinful condition. A condition that persists as long as we live in this life. Or are you pointing people to the Christ who fulfilled our salvation, redeemed us from sin, death and the devil, and who now is preparing a place for us in heaven? One leads to failure and inadequacy, the other leads to forgiveness and salvation.
