

In the Lutheran Church, Confirmation is the rite by which a baptized person, after having received a course of instruction in the Christian faith, makes a public confession of their faith, having given evidence that they can examine themselves and be admitted to the Lord's Supper. This year we confirm one young person who has finished a three-year course of study in the catechism and who will give a public confession of his Christian faith this morning. He will receive his first communion today. Welcome as a new communicant member dear catechumen!
